

mini-BIOMAN: Manufacture of a Drug Product: Final Fill Finish
July 11-13, 2017, Ivy Tech Community College, Bloomington, IN Registration Form

This workshop will be hosted by Sengyong Lee, Professor and Chairperson of the Biotechnology program at Ivy Tech Community College, Co-Principal Investigator and Midwest Hub lead of NBC2. Through lectures and hands-on workshops, participants will learn the theory, concepts and practices of biologic drug product manufacturing in a current good manufacturing practices (cGMP) environment. Workshops will include cutting-edge hands-on laboratory activities including drug stability assays, filter integrity validation, vial filling, stoppering, freeze-drying, drug inspection and gowning for aseptic processing. In addition the history of FDA regulation of parenteral drug products and cGMP regulations currently practiced by industry leaders will be covered. The workshop will include guest lectures from industry experts and a tour of a contract manufacturing organization in Bloomington, IN. Participation in all three days of the workshop is required.

To register, complete this form and return to Matt Marshall, NBC2 Program Manager, at mmarshall@mc3.edu. Registrations will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis, contingent on review by NBC2 leadership.

First Name _____

Last Name _____

Email Address _____

Phone Number _____

Job Title _____

School/Organization _____

Street Address _____

City _____

State _____

Zip _____

Have you previously attended a professional development event hosted by NBC2? If yes, please list the event(s).

Do you currently have a biotechnology/biomanufacturing program at your institution? If so, which relevant courses do you currently teach or have you taught in the past?

Briefly describe your level of experience with biologic drug product manufacturing.

Briefly describe your plans for incorporating the biomanufacturing curriculum materials provided and your anticipated time-frame for doing so.

For reporting purposes, NBC2 will issue an evaluation survey immediately following the conference and 6 months after the conference. Are you willing to complete these surveys?

Would you like to be considered for a travel stipend from NBC2?

YES _____ NO _____